the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ringland, 188 Hickory street, by Rev. C. H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greenville Congregational performed in the front parlor, the couple standing before a handsome bank of laurel and spring flowers. Miss Martha J. Ringland, a sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and William Karkut was the best man. The bride was charmingly gowned in purple tulle with over dress, cut en train, pearl trimmings, and wore a veil. Her maid was dressed in white be with yellow panne girdle. Following the wedding ceremony, there was a banquet of 75 covers, and the happy couple left on the boat train for a Case of Glanders in East Lyme.

Dr. F. H. Ingram, deputy commissioner of domestic animals, has returned to Hartford from East Lyme, where he had been informed there was a case of glanders among glanders. Dr. Ingram found the animal, together with three or four other horses, in a lot owned by George Perkins of East Lyme. Perkins declared that the diseased animal had been put in there without his knowledge, although the owner, Israel Wilkins, said he had made an arrangement with Perkins.
The horse was killed and its carcass buried. The other horses in the field were found to be in a healthy condition.

MASS OF EMBERS AS EXHIBITS

In Craney vs Donovan $20,000 Slander Suit—Defendant Admits Authorship—Many Sent to Willard A. Church With Picture Postal Cards or Letters Received by Mr. Donovan.

All the letters in the alphabet except one were used up on Wednesday in marking exhibits in the superior court in the trial of the $20,000 slander and libel suit brought by John F.
Craney against John Donovan. The last exhibit was marked with the letter Y.

In the morning session of the court a number of witnesses were put on the stand, but it was in the afternoon that the trial of the $20,000 slander and libel suit brought by John F.
last exhibit was marked with the letter Y.

At the opening of court in the morning, with Judge M. A. Shumway on the bench, Attorney Rodolph Douglass recalled to the stand Joseph D.
Harris, who said that he had measured the distance from room 19 in the Alice building, facing the tracks, to the ground, and that it was 30 feet. This he had done at the request of the lawyer.

Frank C. Harwood, a bookkeeper, testified to conversations with Mr.
Donovan in which the latter referred to the actions of Mr. Craney and Mrs.
Church. The witness also corroborated part of the testimony of Mr.
Harris.

Albert Boardman, a merchant, gave testimony that Mr. Donovan had once talked to him about Mr. Craney and Mrs. Church. Boardman said that he did not interest him. Later Mr. Donovan saw him and began to talk about Mr. Craney's record in the legislature.

Witness from Hartford.
Joseph T. Donovan, who once had a tailor store on Main street near the Alice building but is now in the wool business in Hartford, testified that once Mr. Donovan had said to him that he could send Mr. Craney to Wethersfield and another time Mr.
Donovan asked the witness if he had seen Mr. Craney at the legislature.

He was waiting to see Mr. Craney to whip him. Mr. Donovan also said that for two weeks he had been wearing his old clothes.

The witness said also that the defendant had talked about Mr. Craney and Mrs. Church and said he had the goods on them. The witness denied that he had authorized anyone to use his name in writing letters to a man out of town named John Charon.

John B. McCormick, steward at the Elks home, testified that Mr. Donovan had been there about three weeks ago and had directed him to say he was not there if anyone called by telephone. Mr. Donovan went upstairs and said he was acting as a detective.

At another time Mr. Donovan said he was watching to see if Mrs. Church went into the Alice building and Mr.
Donovan had also said that he saw her enter the Alice building and saw her in the office of Mr. Craney.

Otis A. White, who works for Mr.
Harris, the printer, testified to knowing that Mr. Donovan called Mr. Harris out into the hallway, but he did not know where he went.

Plaintiff on the Stand.
At ten minutes before 11 o'clock the plaintiff, John F. Craney, was called to the stand. He testified that he had lived in this city all his life and is in the insurance and real estate business; is unmarried and has his business offices at room 17 in the Alice building and formerly had room 10.
He had also been representative in the legislatures of 1911 and 1913.

Mr. Craney said he had known Mr.
Willard A. Church as long as he had known any man in the city and he had never done anything to harm Mr.
Church, but urged that he see him so that he could learn the truth for he was being kept in the dark. It was of talks between Mr. Donovan and a man at a drug store.

Two other picture postal cards sent to Mr. Donovan in November, 1912, with the signature of John F. Craney to Mr. Church with a letter from Mr.
Donovan were produced. They referred to Mr. Craney's election as representative to the legislature and Mr.
Donovan was not sending these postal cards to Mr. Church to annoy Mr.
Church for Mr. Donovan was troubled about the enemy who was doing this and would like to find out who it was.

Wrote About Bench Warrants.
Another letter written to Mrs.
Church, and sent in an envelope to Mr. Church, contained the statement that the writer proposed to keep warrants issued for the arrest of Mr.
Church and Mr. Craney on three counts, conspiracy and blackmail, and would like to find out who it was.

In another long letter reference was made to a postal card which Mr.
Donovan had sent to Mr. Craney and for which he had been arrested by the federal authorities and expected to pay a fine of $100.

Mr. Donovan's purpose to push the case to a finish was expressed in another letter and that he had "things dead to rights." Another letter contained much reference to a conspiracy against Mr. Donovan, but said he would be equal to the test efforts that could be brought against him and that he had told the truth and had proofs for everything he had said. In another he promised to put in jail the man and woman whose names are most frequently mentioned in the case, and said that he had hoped to keep the matter from "Mrs. D." but a phone call had told her about the $40,000 suits brought against him and now she knew all.

Wrote to Woonsocket Man.
One of the best letters was dated in February, 1914, and spoke of a letter written by John Donovan to John Charon in Woonsocket, which had been written in such a way that it appeared to come from Joe Donovan, the tailor, a friend of John Charon.
It contained a self directed envelope to J. J. Donovan. It contained an inquiry as to what Mr. Charon knew about Mr. Craney being talked about with a woman.

Mrs. Catherine Charon, wife of John Charon of Woonsocket, was placed on the stand while the cross examination of Mr. Church was suspended by request of Judge Shumway. Attorney Douglass wanted to have Mrs. Charon identify a letter, which it was claimed she wrote in answer at the request of her husband, but the judge sustained an objection raised to it by the attorneys for the defendant.

Attorney Douglass explained to the court that Mrs. Charon had a small child and he had called her to the stand in the hope that she might have his trial only one day, but the judge said he thought the witness would have to be here another day.

Court adjourned at the usual time of 4:30, with Mrs. Charon on the stand.
Mr. Charon formerly ran a bowling alley in this city.
